A Strategic Partnership

An agreement was signed on April 7, 2004 that makes Global Christian University an affiliate of Rochester College. GCU is an Internet-based institution that markets bachelors' degrees to students around the world.

The joint venture gives prospective students on any continent access to Rochester's accredited programs. At the same time, the partnership will give Rochester unlimited possibilities to market its degrees on a global scale.

Dr. Michael Westerfield, Rochester's president observed, "This partnership has great potential to realize Rochester's historic mission to educate and empower people who will change the world. We're grateful to God for entrusting us with this opportunity."

Westerfield said the joint venture between the schools would please Rochester's founding fathers.

"We are grateful to Rochester for making this partnership a reality," said Dr. Charles Myer, Jr., GCU president. "It brings to the students of GCU a whole new arena of opportunities."

The agreement between Rochester and Global Christian became effective on June 1, 2004.
